VI. Publications

Books (author):

Libertarianism without Inequality (OUP, 2003)

Book symposia in Raisons Politiques and Iyyun (see items 16-18 below). Reviewed in Philosophy and Phenomenological Research (by Gopal Sreenivasan), The Notre Dame Philosophical Reviews (by Ian Carter), Ethics (by Alex Gosseries), Imprints (by Anca Gheaus), The Philosophical Review (by Timothy Hinton), and Mind (by Samuel Freeman). (NB: A number of journals – including the Philosophical Quarterly, Mind, and the TLS – failed to receive review copies when the book was published in 2003.)

Chapter One – entitled ‘Self-Ownership and Equality’ – is a substantially revised version of an article by the same name that has been reprinted in the following anthology of significant work on left-libertarianism published between 1970 and 2000: Peter Vallentyne and Hillel Steiner, eds. Left-Libertarianism and Its Critics: The Contemporary Debate (Palgrave, 2000), pp. 149-73. The article has also been published in a six-volume anthology of the 100 most significant articles on equality and justice published in the twentieth century: Peter Vallentyne, ed., Equality and Justice, vol. 6: Desert and Entitlement (Routledge, 2003). Chapter One has been the subject of the following research articles: Mathias Risse, ‘Does Left-Libertarianism have Coherent Foundations?’ Politics, Philosophy, and Economics 3 (2004): 337-64, Akira Inoue, ‘Can a Right of Self-Ownership be Robust?’ Law and Philosophy 26 (2007): 575-87, and Richard Arneson, ‘Self-Ownership and World Ownership: Against Left-Libertarianism’, Social Philosophy and Policy 27 (2010): 168-94.

Chapter Two – entitled ‘Making the Unjust Provide for the Disabled’ – is the topic of Joel Dittmer’s ‘Raising Revenue for Persons with Disabilities,’ Res Publica 15 (2009): 33-51.

Chapter Seven – entitled ‘The Problem of Intergenerational Sovereignty’ – is the topic of Víctor M. Muñiz-Fraticelli’s ‘The Problem of a Perpetual Constitution’, in Alex Gosseries and Lukas Meyer, eds. Intergenerational Justice (OUP, 2009).
