Public Administration in Europe (1992-1999) A comparative public administration module for masters students

Comparative Public Policy (1993-2000). A module for third year undergraduates and for masters students

Introduction to Political Science Methods (1997-1999) A postgraduate course designed by me and for which I am responsible.

British Government and Politics (1981-2001). A second year undergraduate course taught jointly with other colleagues which I redesigned. My 1983 structure still forms the basis for the course.

Politics, Power and Bureaucracy (1982-1992). A third year course on comparative bureaucracy which was specifically commended by the external examiner in 1985 as well-constructed and innovative.

Power in Urban British Society (1983-1997). A third year undergraduate course taught jointly with the Department of Sociology.

Political Sociology (1988-2001). A course for first year undergraduates, taught entirely by me, incorporating many innovations in teaching and assessment. Preparation of course materials, a collection of classic essays in the field, involved editing and securing copyright permissions.

Postgraduate Diploma in Public Administration (1981-1986). A postgraduate qualification primarily for public employees in the Humberside area, designed and taught jointly with members of the Department of Sociology and the Department of Social Policy and Professional Studies.
